Working draft v0.3 · June 22, 2026

Thank you for taking a look. The shortest path through what's here:

1. The note that came with this — the short version of why we reached out.
2. The invitation (one page) — what this is, why now, and what a framer is asked to do.
3. The Declaration of Internet Independence (two pages) — the statement we will publish on July 2.

If you'd like to go deeper:

4. "We Never Agreed" — a short essay making the case in plain terms.
5. "The Shape of Your Digital Shadow" — a short essay on what your data is, and why it should belong to you.
6. "Ambition Against Ambition" — a short essay on how a user-owned internet governs itself, and checks its own power.
7. "The Longer Race" — a short essay on the economics of building together: at least as much value, more evenly shared.
8. "The Ledger and the Spoils" — a short essay on why crypto decentralized the ledger but not the rewards, and how AI and crypto together can.
9. The founding brief — the full thinking, including every question we have not yet answered.

You don't need all of it to have the conversation; the first three are enough.
